

PRESIDENT BEATTIE (C.P.R.) AT MACLEOD—APPROACHED RE BUILDING SOUTH LINE

WHEAT POOL STARTS CAMPAIGN TO SECURE 10,000 NEW MEMBERS.

Alberta grain growers are advised that the Alberta Wheat Pool has inaugurated a new campaign for membership and that this campaign is being conducted on a different basis than others in the past, either in Alberta or the two other prairie provinces.

The wheat pool idea had its genesis in this province. Here the original plan was worked out. The legal details in connection with incorporation, the memorandum of association, the members' agreement and the by-laws, were first considered in Alberta, and when carefully perfected, were the basis for the organizations subsequently brought into existence in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Much of the success of the pool method of marketing in Western Canada is attributable to the infinite care that was exercised in Alberta at the beginning when those in charge of organization had this work in hand. Alberta paved the way. The wheat pool here has made remarkable progress. It has won the confidence of the people of this province. Those who entered it at the beginning were satisfied and thousands who waited to see how things would turn out have since been so impressed that they have joined the pool for the balance of the term of the contract, namely, until the 1922 crop is marketed.

Canvassers to Be Paid
The success of the last two years has encouraged the directors of the wheat pool to authorize a new canvass for members at this time. This campaign is now begun and it will be carried on till the end of the year. In the past all canvassing had been done voluntarily with no payment for services rendered, but President Wood and the board of directors feel now that it would be unfair to ask the workers of other campaigns, or new workers, to undertake further work along this line without some payment to offset the time lost and expense incurred in the task of securing contracts.

This membership campaign is therefore open to anyone who wishes to join in the canvass, but no commission will be paid to any member of the board of directors or to any employee of the association. Delegates and local secretaries are eligible to participate in the canvass and to receive commissions.

$1.50 Per Contract
The commission is $1.50 per contract. If the membership fee is given in cash—the fee is $5.00—the canvasser may remit $1.50 to the head office of the wheat pool at Calgary and retain the balance as his commission. When the note form is signed by the grower on the contract sent in, the sum of $1.50 will be sent by the head office to the canvasser, but it must be a bona-fide wheat producer of the province, the contract must be complete as to full name of the grower, his address, location of land and number of acres sown to wheat in 1925, and the signature properly witnessed. In all cases contracts must be accompanied by a canvasser's report, properly filled out, with the full name of the canvasser, and address, properly shown. This is necessary so that the head office may send the proper notice to the proper party.

Contract forms, canvasser's report forms, and self-addressed envelopes are being sent to all wheat pool delegates, wheat pool locals' secretaries, secretaries of U. F. A. locals, and municipal secretaries, to any of whom canvassers may apply for supplies direct to the head office of the pool at Calgary.

The Wheat Pool's Growth
The organizing of the Alberta Wheat Pool in the middle of the summer of 1923 attracted world-wide attention. It was said at the time that success for such a venture was impossible, but so great was the enthusiasm for it both among farmers and the business men of the province that instantaneous success met its first efforts. Although the members' agreement and by-laws and other necessary papers were not drawn up until August of that year, the canvass for members which ensued met so fine a response that by November, 1923, there were enrolled 25,601 members, representing a total acreage of 2,416,413 acres.

U.S. SUBMARINE RAMMED AND SUNK—DEATH TOLL THIRTY-FIVE.

New York, Sept. 2d.—Thirty-five officers and men of the United States S-51 apparently perished last night when the coastwise steamer City of Rome rammed and sank the submarine 14 miles east of Block Island, R. I.

Only three men, Dewey Kile, M. Lira and A. Greer, are reported to have been saved.

Lieut. Rodney H. Dobson was commander of the submarine.

The first intimation of the disaster was the receipt early this morning by the submarine base at New London from the City of Rome, bound from Savannah for Boston. The message said:

"Collided with sunken submarine S-51. Three men saved."

Details of the collision were forthcoming Friday evening.

Block Island lies in the Atlantic ocean off Washington county, Rhode Island, and just east of the easternmost point of Long Island, New York.

Vessels Ordered to Hurry to Scene

Immediately after the news of the disaster became known a wireless message was broadcast ordering all vessels in the vicinity to hurry toward the scene and render what aid they might. Preparations were made in New London, Conn., to dispatch naval craft.

Thirty-eight men comprised the personnel of the S-51.

The officers in addition to Lieut. Dobson, included Lieut. G. Bannerman and Lieut. Harlow Pino. The S-51 was attached to the patrol force of the Atlantic. Her station was New London.

The time of the collision is not yet definitely known but apparently it was some time between 7:30 and 10:30 last night.

Whether the City of Rome sustained any damage in the impact with the submarine has not yet been ascertained.

Submarine Was on Practice Cruise

It is understood, however, that she has veered from her usual outside course to Boston and is making her way through the cape canal and that she will reach her destination some time to-day. The steamer is owned by the Ocean Steamship company and plies regularly in the freight and passenger service between Savannah and Boston. The S-51 left New London on September 21 on what was said to be a practice cruise.

The theory prevailed this morning that she possibly was submerged when struck by the City of Rome.

A message received from the City of Rome about five o'clock this morning said that after the impact and the saving of the three men nothing else could be found.

"An oil spot," the message added, "was seen where the S-51 went down. All proceeding to Boston, except to arrive about 2 p.m."

The message was signed by Captain Diehl.

The S-5 was 1,500 tons burden submerged and 2,000 tons burden running on the surface. She had a four-inch gun forward and five torpedo tubes using 21-inch projectiles.

No Trace of Submarine Found

Newport, R. I., Sept. 26.—A message received from the destroyer Putnam, just before 10 a.m., said that no trace of the submarine had been found. The Putnam was searching east of the spot where she is supposed to have gone down and the submarine S-1 was searching west.

Death Toll Now Placed at 34

Washington, Sept. 26.—Revised estimates from New London on the navy department to-day placed the number of missing in the sinking of the submarine S-51, at 34.

A re-check of records showed that there were 37 aboard the craft and with the three reported saved by the City of Rome that left unaccounted for 28 men and 6 officers.

Members of Crew Saved Doing Well

New York, Sept. 26.—A wireless message from Captain Diehl, of the City of Rome this morning said:

"The three men saved from the submarine S-51 are doing well. The passengers and crew on the City of ton about 2 p.m. Will give more deimportant factor in the success of the pool. It has been warmly commended by banks, financial companies and business concerns in the province.

Objective of Present Campaign

The membership campaign which has now been started aims at raising the membership from 32,000 to 42,000, which, in the average of acreage, will bring the total acreage in the pool to 4,200,000 acres, an increase of 1,000,000 acres.

The present administration can promptly and efficiently care for this increased volume of business. The pool stands higher than ever in the respect and confidence of the people of the province. Several thousand new members have been added by joining the pool without solicitation, simply on account of the good work it has done and the decided satisfaction of old members in the success of its operations. The objective set by President Wood and his associates in the administration of the pool's affairs can easily be reached if the friends of the pool set about the work promptly and actively and all who desire further information about the pool, in any department of its operations, can have this for the head office in Calgary.

The board of directors of the Alberta Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited—the legal name of the Alberta Wheat Pool—are: H. W. Wood, Cartas; W. J. Jackson, Bremner; C. Jensen, McGrath; Lew Hutchinson, Duhamel; Ben. S. Plumer, Bassano; O. L. McPherson, M. L. A. Vulcan, and R. A. McPherson, Delia.

THE LEAGUE AND THE MOSUL ISSUE

Another definite stage in the attempt to settle the Mosul dispute has been reached. The Council of the League of Nations, after hearing the case presented by Great Britain and Turkey, has referred the question to the World Court at The Hague. It will take three months before the court decides. Meanwhile severe weather will have set in, and the passions for war as a means of determining the frontier between Turkey and Iraq will have had time to cool off. That of course is contingent upon the behavior of the Turks, for if they continue to force Christians out of the region under consideration, a situation may arise that will demand prompt and energetic measures.

Critics of the League condemn the Council's action on the ground that it shifts the responsibility to the case

Permanent Court of International Justice. They argue that the postponement of a settlement has now brought the country almost to the brink of war. Nor do they hesitate to point to the move as a sign of the weakness, if not the impotence, of the League in the face of the Turks. Some appear to think that, if the Council had pronounced in favor of the British mandate as suggested by the sub-committee, the Turks would have no alternative but to accept, and that the defiant attitude of the Angora delegates would have changed before a decision that undoubtedly would command the support of the public in general.

But the Turks have declared they will never allow the Mosul men to be retained under the British mandate. Indeed, it has been freely suggested in the Turkish press that anything short of an award of the complete vilayet to Turkey should be contemptuously rejected. Moreover, Tewfik Rashedi, the Foreign Minister who represents Turkey at Geneva, declines to abide by the decision of the League. In asserting his position, he is merely echoing the sentiments of his countrymen, for the Turks demand 100 percent of their claims.

The hopes of the Turks are extravagant. They are built upon a record of diplomatic successes as well as victories at arms. The defeat of the Turks in the Great War was a blow they soon forgot. They cleared the Greeks out of Smyrna and pushed their lines on the western side of the Bosphorus back to the Maritza. They took part in the negotiations at Lausanne, not as a vanquished nation but as a power with a commanding voice. As a result Ismet Pasha signed a treaty in 1923 which practically gave the Turks all they demanded. Dissension over the Ruhr kept the Allies busy, and the Turk won the day.

Victory in the field spurred the Turks on to victory at the council table. The Greeks no longer exercise restraint on them, and the Armenian question has been settled by getting rid of the Armenians. Now the Turks have set eyes upon Mosul. They employed at Geneva the same tactics as they used with such signal success at Lausanne. So elated has become public opinion at home that the delegation would hesitate before agreeing on a settlement that fell short of the complete transfer of the territory to Turkey. But upon the League there rests a grave responsibility. By the discharge of that responsibility will it be judged, for upon it rests not only the future relations of Iraq and Turkey, but also the peace of the Middle East.

THE SUDDEN DANISH DEFLECTION.

During the past few months the rapid appreciation of the Danish currency, closely followed by that of the Norwegian, has been the leading sensation of the foreign exchange market. Indeed we have seen the German mark and to a certain extent the French franc in which speculators in money values have hastened the downward course of national currencies, we have now had the much more unusual spectacle of traders in foreign exchange forcing the value of a currency up much faster than the daily users of that currency have either expected or relished. Usually upward speculation is limited to the final stages toward gold parity, as was the case with the British pound last spring but in this case it began over a quarter of the distance down and has continued with remarkable steadiness all the way up.

In a certain sense this has been complimentary to the country concerned, but the benefits derived have been anything but unmixed. The experience of Denmark in this matter has been a practical demonstration of the fact that sudden variations in the exchange value of a currency are unpredictable whether upward or downward. The depreciation of the Danish money was, of course, one of the war effects, and the exchange situation has deeply concerned the Danish authorities for some time. A great number of measures have been studied with a view to improvement, but under no circumstances was such a sudden return toward parity either planned or wished.

One of the measures decided upon was to borrow money abroad, especially in the U. S., where the Danish credit continued to be good, and it was in anticipation of the consequent transfers of funds from the American market to the Danish that the speculators first began to gamble on a rise in demand for kroner.

Then as each upward step was sustained by public belief that the Scandinavian currencies would continue to rise, the movement continued.

The first Danish interests to feel discomfited by this rise in the home currency were the exporters, and as this class includes the country's agriculture, the leading Danish industry, this meant nearly everybody.

As the exchange value of their own money went up, the returns for food products sold abroad grew smaller and smaller, which in turn meant either decreased profits or lower wages, or both. Reserve stocks had to be sold at a loss and unemployment increased. At the same time the home market was flooded by foreign made goods, the import of which had suddenly become more profitable at the exchange value of such money went up.

In the long run the country will undoubtedly benefit from the improvement of its currency, but the experience proves that sudden changes such as brought on by intensive speculation, cause hardships whether the movement is down or up, and that the speed of such changes may be beyond the control of the issuing authorities.

THE ROAD HOG.

I come out with many jerks and fits

From out my cherubic garb.

And very nearly smash to bits

An old dame's pony carriage.

At thirty or I race away—

The engine purring sweetly—

I shove her up to forty-five

And dodge a lamp-post neatly.

A man looms up athwart my path,

He isn't long a liver,

For men may come and men may go,

But not before my "liver."

I wind about and in and out—

The car is such a topper—

The traffic laws I simply flout,

Unless I see a copper.

On greasy roads I take a ride,

Although I sideslip, maybe,

An aged man had need be brisk,

Or nursemaid with a baby.

And nervous folk I always seek

To come on unaware;

I love to hear the beggars shriek

And leap high in the air.

Pedestrians who chance to know

My ways all stand and shiver,

For men may come and men may go,

But not before my "liver."

BUY AT HOME SPEND YOUR MONEY IN MACLEOD

Purchases representing thousands of dollars are lost to us, to our trade, to our clerks and employees, to our laborers and artisans, to all the people of Macleod who exist on the products of their work. This money, if spent at home, would help to recreate Macleod financially, give a wider field of activities in business, would be helpful to every resident of this town.

If we purchased regularly from local merchants, this money would circulate in Macleod in a welcome manner. Our merchants merit our patronage; it is to our interest, and the duty of all of us to encourage the local merchant. He is one of us, he lives among us, he has the right to be encouraged by us, he is anxious to have our custom, and to give us satisfaction. We should under all circumstances give him preference, price for price, quality for quality. And nearly always the price that our local merchant asks is, if we compare the quality, just as cheap as that of the outside merchant.

Never purchase merchandise by catalogues from foreign houses before assuring yourself that you cannot procure the same articles, of the same quality (and frequently of better quality) at the same price from your local merchant.

It has been announced that Frank L. Thompson of Macleod has been awarded second prize in an all-Canada competition conducted by Power House, for second class engineers. Power House of Canada is the standard technical publication for power plant engineers in Canada. It has recently organized this competition for Canadian operators holding first, second, third and fourth class papers of qualification, which has aroused much interest. The quake was accompanied by low rumblings which lasted several seconds. A large number of residences were shaken and many of the inhabitants were badly frightened. The quake took place during a severe snow-storm. According to the oldest old-timer this is the first time that Macleod has felt any tremors. Many persons are still doubtful as to the cause of their residences shaking, thinking it was some phenomenal electrical storm."

PAPER READ BY MRS. WHIPPLE AT THE CONSTITUENCY CONVENTION OF THE WOMENS' INSTITUTES HELD AT CLARESHOLM.

As there is a very important Bill which concerns every married woman, to be brought up at the next session of the Legislature, I would like to bring some of the points to you notice.

The present portion of the married woman is this under the present Married Woman's Property Act: A married woman is as free to buy and sell, own property, collect rents and use her own earnings as a single woman.

Let us see what the new Bill is offering the married woman of Alberta in exchange.

The Act is called "An Act Establishing Community Property as between Husband and Wife." Let no woman be carried away with the idea that this means a wife owns half of what her husband has, for it does not. Let me read the 3rd and 4th clauses of the Bill. So you see that when a man or woman is married there is no community property for either; it has all to be made after marriage. What does community property consist of? Three things—money made after marriage, rents, profits from the husband's personal estate, rents and profits from the wife's personal estate. Ah! then a wife owns half of that. Legally she does, but practically she does not. What is the advantage of owning a thing if you cannot use it? Listen while I read clause (8). What does that mean? That the husband can collect all the revenues including any profits from his wife's own estate, and has the absolute disposal of it the same as if it were his own.

Should the profits of the community be invested in bonds he can sell them at any time and use the money as he sees fit. The wife has no say in disposing or collecting any revenue. At present it is her legal right to do so. I wish to call your attention here to the expression other than in clause 8, testamentary, which means wills. This seems to mean that a man who may have all his wealth (acquired since marriage) in stock or movables, he can not make a will leaving his half to his wife. The only benefit to the wife in the community act is that the husband cannot sell any real estate acquired after marriage, unless the wife joins him in the execution of it. Can a wife ever get control of her half of the community so as to have some money of her own? Yes, if these dreadful things happen—if her husband dies, if there is a legal separation, if there is a divorce; the community property is then divided, (c. 13). Is a wife ever made head of the community? Yes, when other dreadful things happen, if her husband is a confirmed drunkard, if he deserts his family, if he is put in jail for over a year, if he becomes insane, then she has to apply to the court to be made head of the community.

Some of you here present expect on your death and the death of your husband, to have property to leave to your daughters. If this Bill becomes a law and your daughters are comes into force, they will not have the legal right to enjoy the revenues, as they will go into the communities and their husbands given the right to spend or invest them.

How many women consider that this Act gives them any substantial benefit to replace the Married Women's Property Act? Will a wife under this Act have control of any more money than she does at present?

Theoretically she may own half of all property in the community, but practically has to take what her husband chooses to give her,

even the money for chickens, eggs and butter all goes into community and the husband is practically the man who is the head of the community.

It is a matter of surprise that in the drafting of this Bill the National Council of Women was not consulted,

as for over 30 years they have been working to get better laws for women, and the head of the law committee, Mrs. O. E. Edwards, is in the province. Mrs. Edwards is recognized as an expert in laws for women, having compiled two books on the subject. One has been published by the Alberta legislature and the other after having been overlooked by the department of justice in Ottawa, was published by the Federal government. The only Women's Society consulted was the U.F.W.A.

class steam engineers as given by the institute.

Services will be held at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. At the morning worship we seek to lift our souls by the aid of the spirit into fellowship with God.
